Luxury You Can 'Bank' On

MORE ABOUT THIS OFFER

Boscolo Prague has a long history of entertaining the most discriminating guests from around the world. Now you can be one of them as you step behind the building's grand façade and get enveloped in the true taste of Italy.

On September 21, the hotel is teaming up with Venetian winemakers Terre di San Rocco to bring you a night of gourmet dishes paired with the full-flavored wines of northern Italy. This family-owned vintner approaches winemaking with a passionate dedication to the earth and natural growing methods. The location of the vines in the clay-based soil north of the Venice lagoon lends a unique aroma to the wines that will mingle perfectly with the scents of expertly prepared Italian dishes by the Boscolo's chefs.

You'll enjoy four courses in all—each paired with a perfectly selected wine. The evening's festivities begin at 18:30 with an aperitif and from there, it's a pure gastronomical gondala ride through the best of the region's offerings.

You'll emerge with both your appetite and your thirst for more knowledge about Italian wines completely satisfied!

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Boscolo Prague might be a haven of luxury now, but at one time it was all business. For proof of this, all you need to do is look up at the inscription above the doorway that reads: HYPOTECNI BANCA CESKA, or "Czech Mortgage Bank," which is the building's original purpose.

But before it went from bank to hotel, the structure - originally designed by Austrian architect Wölf - served as the headquarters of the Czech Postal Service during the communist years. After being ignored and falling into disrepair for many years, the magnificent structure, with its neoclassical façade, was restored by the Boscolo Hotels group to reassert its place in Prague's architectural history.

All is not new however. Guests will be pleased to know that the headboards of the beds in all rooms date from the first half of the 19th century - helping the past and the future blend perfectly, just as it does throughout the five-star property.
