MORE ABOUT THIS OFFER

There are few restaurants in Prague as whimsical and colourful as Luka Lu. From the moment you step inside, you feel as though you've stepped into a fairytale thanks to the upside down chair hung from the ceiling, the captivating storybook artwork, the colourful tablecloths, vibrant wall paint, cozy loft spaces and copious greenery. Then of course, there are the songbirds happily singing away in their elaborate cages.

If the weather is fine, you can choose to watch the world go by dining on the picnic tables out front, or you can hide away in the secret garden out back filled with plush pillows, plants aplenty, and the sense that you've left the hustle and bustle out on Ujezd Street far behind.

But it's not only the setting of Luka Lu that is transportive—the food will take you to the warm and sunny shores of the Balkan peninsula. Especially with this offer from Lime&Tonic!

You and a friend will start your feast by each selecting one of Luka Lu's delectable soups. Following that, you should be good and "warmed up" for the main course: a specially designed "Orač" combination platter for 2. Here you'll find stuffed Pljeskavice (minced meat, edam cheese, bacon), Ćevapčići (spiced minced meat kebabs), homemade lamb sausages, chicken medallions & grilled potatoes. Top it all off with your choice of desserts from the main menu—each one certain to provide a happy ending to this dining fairytale that makes a perfect lunch out with friends!

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

In addition to lots of other Balkan delights, your "Orač" combination platter will include Ćevapčići—small skinless sausages made from minced meat.

Although originally developed in Asia, these delicious bites were embraced by the Balkan countries, especially Bulgaria, Serbia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, where they are considered a national dish. Regional variations make trying the dish in various cultures a true delight. In Serbia, Ćevapčići are made from equal parts seasoned beef and pork and they're served with French fries and minced onions or on a thin bun similar to pita bread, called lepinja. In Bosnia, ćevapi (as they are known) are made from two types of minced beef meat, hand mixed, formed with a funnel and grilled. In the Czech Republic ćevapčići is most often served with mustard, raw onions and potatoes.

One thing is certain, no matter how they're served, the small sausages are big on flavour and highly addictive, so you might find yourself returning to Luka Lu just for a satisfying plate of Ćevapčići the next time the urge hits!
