“I often wonder if God, in His sovereignty, allows the eyesight of the aged to cast a dim view of the here and now so that we may focus our spiritual eyes on the ever after.”

—Billy Graham, Nearing Home

Dear Guideposts Friend,

If you're like me, when you think about getting older, you feel a mixed bag of emotions. On the one hand, our later years allow us to rest more, spend more time on activities we enjoy, gather with friends and family and focus on our spiritual life. On the other hand, aging brings with it a host of challenges: both spiritual and physical.

Billy Graham, now in his mid-90s, has experienced these emotions too and that's what led him to write Nearing Home: Life, Faith and Finishing Well, a beautiful book that examines all aspects of aging. His closeness with God and decades of counseling people across the planet gives Billy unique insights into living our later years with a focus on spirituality, connectedness, participation and love.

In this highly personal book, you'll get lifted up by Graham's unshakable hope in heaven and his firm faith that God still has a purpose for us all, no matter what age we are.

(Over, please)

Inspiration From a Life Lived in Service

During his decades as a preacher, Billy Graham delivered the Gospel message to more people face-to-face than anyone in history and has ministered on every continent.

From this vast experience, he's heard thousands of stories of people embracing God's love in their life and using His light to guide them into their later years. In Nearing Home, he shares dozens of these stories with you including anecdotes from a visit with President Reagan and from interactions with his friend, musician George Beverly Shea.

He also calls upon uplifting Scriptural quotes to support his text, such as this one from Psalm 90:12:

*Teach us to number our days,
that we may gain a heart of wisdom.*

Finally, Graham calls upon some unlikely sources for inspiration as we age. In the pages of Nearing Home you'll discover ...

- The story of an obscure Biblical character named Barzillai and his lesson on aging gracefully (page 10)
- A rare flower called a night-blooming cereus and the way in which it inspired a man to remain vital until his final days (page 33)
- The way in which an artisan's use of old trees growing atop the windswept Appalachian Mountains contains a lesson in seeing the beauty of aging (page 147)

A Serious Subject With a Light Touch

On page 78 of Nearing Home, Billy Graham writes: "Birthdays are good for you," someone said. "Statistics show that the people who have the most live the longest." You'll find this humorous touch throughout Nearing Home, which shines the light of laughter on what is often a somber subject. For example, Graham tells the story about his wife Ruth who, after a particularly harrowing car ride, took inspiration from a road sign to come up with her own epitaph: End of Construction. Thank you for your patience.

Simply written, full of honest insights and practical steps, Nearing Home will bring you the wisdom to live, age and finish well ... with God by your side every step of the way.

Glorious Hope: The Perfect Companion to Nearing Home

Whereas Nearing Home provides the insights of one man on his aging process, Glorious Hope gives you the wit and wisdom of 36 different Guideposts authors on growing older with grace, humor, energy and an abundant sense of adventure.

You'll hear from ...

- Gina Bridgeman who describes the writers group she belongs to where every member is over 80 years old!
- Sue Monk Kidd who uses the classic children's story, The Velveteen Rabbit to explain the aging process to her young daughter.
- Acclaimed journalist Adela Rogers St. Johns who looks at the brighter side of growing older and comes to terms with slowing down, despite her lifelong nickname of "Swiftly."
- Jimmy Gupton who opens his home to two strangers in his later years—a move that fills his heart with purpose and joy.

And many others! It's a treasury of wisdom we all need as we grow older and one you'll want in your library no matter your age!

Glorious Hope is sure to fill you with optimism about the aging process and ignite in you the fire of a hope that will fuel an old age full of connections and service to family, friends and your community.

A Great Gift Collection!

Together, Nearing Home and Glorious Hope make a one-of-a-kind set that's not only perfect to address your own questions about aging, but it's ideal for younger children facing the aging of parents, friends who may be having a hard time with growing older, or your own parents as they grapple with their transition

Dear Friend,

Those are the words my friend said to me when I gave her Nearing Home and Glorious Hope as a gift. And I know exactly what she's talking about, because when I read these two books, I had exactly the same feeling. And I think you will too.

You see, as we age, it's nice to know that there are others facing—and triumphing over—the same challenges we are. And that's exactly what you'll get in this two-book set...

In Nearing Home, Billy Graham puts into words what many of us feel as we age ... and then he provides his unique wisdom plus anecdotes from people he's pastored to make you feel included in a much larger community. Plus, he points out that none of us are really alone when we walk through our older years with God by our side!

In Glorious Hope, dozens of Guideposts writers share their own reflections on growing older, making you realize that there are some things universal in aging, and that if we approach our older years with zest, hope and optimism, we'll all be just fine.

Together, the two books are like a “support system” always at your fingertips, offering you faith, friendship and encouragement whenever you need it. I have every confidence that you'll enjoy having them nearby no matter what your age.

Best regards,

Lu Broas
